

Online Full-Text Databases: Suggestions for Citing Articles (MLA Style)

Based on:

Gibaldi, Joseph. MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers. 6th ed. New York: Modern Language Association of America, 2003.

Use the following format:

For a Journal: Author. "Article Title." Journal Title Volume. Issue (year): pagination or length.
Database name. Online service. Name of Library. Access date <URL>.

For a Magazine or Newspaper: Author. "Article Title." Magazine or Newspaper Title Issue Date: pagination or length. Database name. Online service. Name of Library. Access date <URL>.

Component parts of the citation are as follows:

- Author: The author(s) of the article. If no author is given, the article title should be given first.
- Article Title: The title of the article, in quotation marks.
- Journal Title: The title of the journal in which the article was published. The journal title should be underlined and there is no period following the title.
- Volume.Issue (Year): If only the date is provided, give the full date and leave out the parentheses.
- Pagination: Give the beginning and ending pages (e.g., 45-49). If only the starting page is provided, give the page number followed by a hyphen, a space, and a period (e.g. "192- ."). If no pagination is provided, give the article length in number of words or paragraphs (e.g., 15 pars.), if they are numbered.
- Database Name (if known): Underline the name of the database in which you found the article (e.g., Academic Search Elite) but do not underline the period following the title.
- Online Service: The name of the online service (e.g., "ProQuest" or "EBSCOhost").
- Name of Library: Include a city, state abbreviation, or both, if useful (e.g. "San Diego Mesa College Lib.")
- Access Date: The date you accessed the article.
- URL of the Service's Home Page (if known): Enclose in angle brackets.
